Congressman Gerald E. Ford
381 House Office Building
Washington, D. C.

Dear Jerry:

I am very much troubled that the Resolution (H.J.Res. 157) offered without advance notice by the Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, Mr. Tolliver, restricts the powers in the Presidential Commission in giving into the President's assassination trials to give the Commission a legislative purpose. Nowhere in the language of H.J. Res. 157 does there appear the basic requirement set forth in my resolution on the same subject, H.J.Res. 838, that the Commission shall report to the Congress the results of its investigation together with its recommendations, if any, for legislation.

Lacking such a legislative purpose, I fear that recalcitrant or hostile witnesses may have a valid basis for refusing to answer, for H.R. 1200 has been written to the effect that investigations lacking a legislative purpose may not constitutionally be permitted to act as a preliminary process.

I sincerely recommend that appropriate legislative action be taken to vest the Presidential Commission with a legislative purpose and to give your staff venting with a subpoena power.

A copy of H.J.Res. 838 is appended hereto.

Sincerely,

Louis C. Wyman
